

10

The Top

Clever Ways Clinicians Use Doximity

1. RECEIVE CURATED NEWS

“ Doximity DocNews saves me the time and energy that would otherwise be spent scouring the Internet for the breaking articles in radiation oncology. Now I can get the majority of that information in a single place — giving me more time to focus on patient care or learning how to become a better physician.

— Radiologist: Boston, MA

2. SECURELY FAX ON-THE-GO

“ At the airport, I used Doximity to fax an urgent order to a patient’s infusion center; they got the fax before I made it through security!

— Family Medicine: Chico, CA

3. CALL PATIENTS WITHOUT *67

“ Doximity Dialer saves the extra step of *67, or turning off caller ID. It goes even further and can display the office number that would be most familiar to any of your patients.

— Pediatric Cardiologist: Oakland, CA

4. FIND A CLINICAL TRIAL

“ After searching for clinical trials for a severe eczema refractory case, I was referred to a nearby expert. I found the physician quickly on Doximity and simply sent her a message, getting my patient set up with the trial manager within a matter of hours.

— Allergy & Immunology: Brookline, MA

5. SEARCH & FIND EXPERTS

“ I had a very rare neuroradiology case one shift. Our neuroradiologist told me of an MD who’d know the probable diagnosis but didn’t have his information. I mentioned Doximity, logged in, and was able to find him! Within a few days, he was able to provide his input, which aided in the patient’s care.

— Radiologist: Chicago, IL

6. BREAKDOWN BARRIERS

“ Despite the gravity of a patient’s situation, I learned she failed to follow-up with the referred doctor. Turns out the language barrier was a hurdle and she felt uncomfortable discussing private issues in front of a translator. I found a nearby specialist fluent in her language on Doximity, and she happily contacted him.

— Internal Medicine: Oakland, CA

7. CONNECT WITH COLLEAGUES

“ Yesterday, I used the app to get the cell number of the radiologist that read the cat scan, discuss results, text with patient’s nephrologist and get clearance faxed from patient’s cardiologist. All in 10 minutes.

— Urologist: West Warwick, RI

8. LAND A JOB

“ Through Doximity’s networking opportunities, I ended up landing my current role at the Managed Division of AIDS Healthcare Foundation and received several consulting offers to provide expert witness work.

— Geriatrics: Los Angeles, CA

9. EARN CATEGORY 1 CME

“ Recently, a case of ARCAPA was presented to me. I researched this rare condition right before seeing my patient when using CME search, then offered her the best advice based on data. I have been using it more and more to find relevant articles in rare topics.

— Cardiologist: New York, NY

10. OWN GOOGLE SEO

“ Updating my Doximity account has improved the Google search for my name. Better, more relevant results appear since I updated my profile a couple years ago.

— Surgeon: Newark, NJ

---

Doximity is the largest, fastest-growing professional network for physician and healthcare professionals in the US. See why over 70% of clinicians have joined at:

www.doximity.com

